GEORGE "PUNCH" IMLACH

The Maple Leafs' manager-coach has been in the organization for two seasons and has had his club in the same number of playoff finals, lifting them from near oblivion to the brink of Stanley Cup victory.

Toronto born and of Scottish descent, Imlach's life has been filled with sport since boyhood when he indulged in lacrosse, hockey, baseball and football. He played junior hockey with Ed Wildey's Young Rangers, followed by senior competition with the Toronto Marlboros and the Goodyears.

Punch joined the army in 1941 and upon his discharge had a trial with the Detroit Red Wings, but failed to make the grade due mainly to too much poundage gained in the service. He sought employment with a Quebec City firm so he could play with the Aces and later, when he retired as a player, he helped groom Jean Beliveau into a scoring ace.

In 1943, Punch married the former Dorothy "Dodo" Simons. Their two children, Brent, 13, and Marlene, 8, were born in Quebec City.

Once slated to be a violinist, Imlach has a superstituous nature, piercing blue eyes and is an eternal optimist. He now makes his home in the eastern section of Toronto.

KING CLANCY

Born - Ottawa Ontario, February 23, 1902
Assistant General Manager-Coach.

Only those over forty will be able to recall the day when King Clancy's name was not associated with the National Hockey League.

After nine successful years and four Stanley Cups with the Ottawa Senators, Clancy became a Maple Leaf in 1930-31 when Leafs purchased his contract from Ottawa for $ 35.000 and two players. When the 1930-31 schedule ended, Clancy found himself on hist firs All-Star team, partnering Eddie Shore. He repeated that success two years later, but in the meantime enjoyed a berth on two alternate teams.

When King retired in November, 1936, he remained with Toronto as Ambassador of Good Will. He then coached Montreal Maroons, before donning skates as a linesman and later referee in the NHL. In 1949 he was appointed NHL referee-in-chief.

It was back to coaching for Clancy and in 1950 he was behin the bench of Cincinnati Mohawks. In his first year as coach for Pittsburgh in 1951, the Hornets won the Calder Trophy. Then in 195 Clancy was brought back to Toronto, this time as coach for the Lea Today he is Assistant General Manager-Coach. It was his sales pitc via telephone to Red Kelly that laid the groundwork for the eventu deal that brought Kelly into a blue and white uniform.

BOB DAVIDSON

Born, Toronto Ont. February 10, 1912

Chief Scout.

Toronto's only full-time scout, the now white-haired Davidson took over the job ten years ago when he succeeded the late Squib Walker. A former captain and left wing star with the Maple Leafs, he wore Number 4 and was relentless checker on a line with Gordie Drillon and Syl Apps.

Today, much of Bob's time is spent in Maple Leaf Gardens where he does considerable paper work in his second floor office, but he makes periodic safaris searching for future Leaf material. Though Toronto has only one official scout, the club maintains assistants, or "bird dogs" in every province.

The winter gives Davidson little time to relax, but he makes up for it during the summer. An ardent fisherman, he enjoys the peace and quiet of Muskoka where he indulges in long sessions of his favorite recreation.

Married in May, 1936, to the former Margaret Glencross, Davidson makes his home in suburban Leaside. Besides having three hockey conscious sons, Bob, 21, Jimmy, 14, and Tommy, 9, Davidson is a grandfather.

GEORGE ARMSTRONG

Born - Skead Ont., July 6, 1930
Right wing. Shoots right. 6'2" 195 lbs.
Last amateur club - Toronto Marlboros (Srs)

George Armstrong, Maple Leafs' captain, is a dark-haired man of Indian and Scottish blood. He wears his "C" proudly and inspires his mates with conscientious effort rather than fiery leadership.

A native of Skead, Ont., he moved to nearby Falconbridge at an early age and became Tod Sloan's neighbor and close pal. At 17, George began a sensational career. In his one season with Stratford, he scored 33 goals and 39 assists to win the league scoring race and the OHA's Most Valuable Player Award. He then jumped to the senior Marlboros in time to participate in the Allan Cup playoffs, scoring 19 goals and 19 assists in 19 games.

Until he became a Leaf regular in the 1952-53 season, Armstrong devided his time between the now defunct Pittsburgh Hornets and Toronto. His first N.H.L. goal was scored on February 9, 1952, against Canadiens' Gerry McNeil in Maple Leaf Gardens. He has been tutored by some former Leaf greats, notably Syl Apps, Joe Primeau and King Clancy, but the last two seasons under Punch Imlach have been his first two 20-goal years. He is married to the former Betty Shannon of Capreol. They have two children, five - and - a - half - year old Brian and Betty Ann, 4.

JOHNNY BOWER

Born - Prince Albert, Sask. November 8, 1925
Last amateur club - Prince Albert Black Hawks (Juniors)

Bower has been in pro hockey since 1945. He spent eleven of those years in the AHL with Cleveland Barons and the Providence Reds. He was the first goaltender to win the Harry "Hap" Holmes Memorial Trophy as the league's most valuable player, a distinction he had for three successive years. He was on five All Star teams. While with Vancouver he received the WHL's Leading Goalkeeper Award.

The Maple Leafs drafted Bower from Cleveland in August, 1958. In less than a season he had taken over the Toronto netminding job from the younger Ed Chadwick.

When the Stanley Cup final ended last year, and Canadiens had won, Conn Smythe, the managing director of Maple Leaf Gardens, went straight to Johnny Bower in the dressing room. He shook his hand, thanked him for the way he had played, and later called him Leafs' Horatio.

Johnny is married to the former Nancey Brain. They have three children.

Bob Baun was born in Saskatchewan but came to Toronto with his parents when he was three months old. In his teens, his talent took him into the Toronto chain - junior "B" with Weston and junior "A" with Marlboros where coach Turk Broda guided him to two Memorial Cup triumphs.

In 1957 he married the former Sallie Krohn, a classmate at school in Scarborough. They have two children. Jeffery, not quite three, and nine months old Gregory.

CARL BREWER

ABBENS NHL HOCKEY

Born - Toronto Ontario, October 21, 1938
Last amateur club: Toronto Marlboros.

It is an almost impossible task to jump from junior to the NHL in one year in such an exacting position as defense. Only a few, such as Red Kelly, have made it stick. But, Carl Brewer is another - moving from the captaincy of the junior Marlboros to a place on the Leaf defense and handling himself with aplomb from the beginning. He is rather small for a defenseman, but is developing into one of the most tenacious blockers in the league. He also has a mischievous, colorful streak that keeps opposition players off balance, to say nothing of the referees. If there is one sure thing in the NHL, it is that Brewer will become an all-star and perhaps eventually the ice leader of the Leafs.

RINGMEMBERS on Archive.org

During his school days Carl was a short-stop with a 300-plus batting average and starred on the gridiron. The Cleveland Indians once invited him to have a trial with their farm team at Batavia, N.Y.

A bachelor, Carl lives with his parents in their east Toronto home. He spends most of his off seasons studying at McMaster Universit in Hamilton with a view to getting his B.A. degree.

Chadwick became a goaltender almost by accident. From birth he was plagued by a foot disability which made it impossible for him to skate like other kids. When he first did become capable of normal usage, he was too good a goalie to change.

Thanks largely to Ed, the Americans clinched second place in the AHL last season and Chadwick, with his four shut-outs and game average of 2.75 was the winner of the Harry "Hap" Holmes Memorial Trophy, and was chosen to the All Star Team.

DICK DUFF

Born, Kirkland Lake Ont, Feb. 18, 1936
Left Wing, Shoots left. 5'10" 162 lbs
Last amateur club: St. Michaels College (Jrs.)

A home grown Maple Leaf, Dick left St. Mikes to don a Toronto sweater in the fall of 1955 and has always been one of the teams' brightest stars. Considered diminutive, Duff relies on finesse rather than brawn to get past opposing defensemen and is far more concerned about team success than individual awards.

Now 24, the personable Duff is quick witted, a good talker and has a serious attitude about his future. For the past four summers he has been attending Assumption College in Windsor where he is seeking his Bachelor of Arts degree. He is a favorite visitor at the Sacred Heart Children's Village, an orphange on Toronto's St. Clair Avenue, where he dons sneakers and plays floor hockey with his young admirers.

Duff gets relaxation from watching TV, reading good books and listening to his many records.

The dark-haired winger makes his winter home with friends in North Toronto. He spends several weeks each summer visiting with his family, manages to get in a little golf, and then heads for the classroom.

GERRY EHMAN

Born - Cudworth Sask. November 3, 1932

The most important single weapon in Gerry Ehman's equipment as a hockey player is a quick, hard shot. He used it im the first game he played with Leafs, on December 24, 1958 -- and scored a goal as Leafs won 2-0 over Detroit, which had tried Ehman for eight games earlier that season and then sent him to the minors. The line of Billy Harris, Frank Mahovlich and Ehman was a strong force in Leafs' subsequent drive to the playoffs that year, and his six goals and seven assists in Leafs' 12 playoff games promised well for the future.

Punch Imlach engineered the transaction for Ehman, who was the AHL's All Star left wing in 1957-58. To complete the deal, Toronto sent Willie Marshall back to Hershey.

Gerry played junior hockey with Flin Flon and was a promising prospect for the Red Wings who turned him pro with the Edmonton Flyers in 1952-53. One of his greatest hockey thrills occured in January, 1958, when he played one game for the Boston Bruins against the Rangers as a replacement for the ailing Leo LaBine and scored his first NHL goal.

Ehman is married to the former Lorraine Sillers, a former figure skater with a western ice show. They have one son, Dale.

One of Maple Leafs' dependable trouble-shooters during the 1959-60 season was Garry Edmundson. He spent considerable time on the bench, getting into action essentially as a forechecker. Now 28, Garry plays both centre and left wing and throws body-checks with authority.

Originally he was the property of Montreal Canadiens, a graduate of their farm system. He played one league game and two playoff games with Habs in 1952, then spent five seasons toiling with various minor league clubs before signing with Toronto on September 21, 1959. He became a Leaf via a roundabout deal. In summer trade, Toronto sent Barry Cullen to Detroit in exchange for Johnny Wilson and George Roggeveen. Shortly thereafter Roggeveen was traded to Springfield for Edmundson.

Extremely popular with both his teammates and fans, Garry is frequently referred to as "Duke", a nickname pinned on him by his father who admired the great Duke Keats.

During the off season Garry lives with his parents in Edmonton.

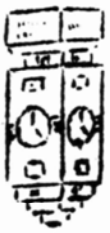
BILLY HARRIS



Born - Toronto Ont. July 29, 1935
Last amateur club: Toronto Marlboros. (Jrs)

Billy Harris isn't the biggest or toughest player in the National Hockey League, but when you ask defensemen of other teams who's the hardest man to get a piece of if he's getting a little skating room -- Harris is the Name.

Harris joined Leafs for the 1955-56 season. The following year he split between Toronto and Rochester, and was so dissatisfied with his play in the minors -- and with the prospect of staying there that he seriously considered quitting the game.

Billy isn't married -- yet. His father was killed during World War 11 in the RCAF, and the Harrises, Bill, younger brother Doug, and their mother, live in the home of Bill's paternal grandfather in Toronto's east end. One sister, Barbara, is married. Billy is the oldest in the family.

He's also one of a new breed in the NHL - the first rate professional who also wants to be well educated. In his spare time both in and out of the hockey season, he works at acquiring credits toward his Bachelor of Arts degree.

Horton has been a veritable rock on the Leaf defense for the past eight seasons and has had to overcome some adverse conditions to survive. On March 12, 1955, he suffered a fracture to the tibia and fibula of the right leg and a shattered jaw when checked by Bill Gadsby in a game at Maple Leaf Gardens.

A year earlier, Gadsby and Horton had been named as defensemen on the NHL's second All Star team for 1953-54. Toronto didn't have another all star defenseman until last spring, when Allan Stanley made it. These two, Stanley and Horton, have played exceptionally well together for the last two seasons, their styles complementing one another.

Tim is married to the former Dolores Michaluk, a dental assistant whom he met during his stay in Pittsburgh. They have four daughters, Jeri, Kim, Kelly and Tracy. A great family man, Horton prefers puttering around his home as a substitute for shows and dances. He has a mild disposition both on and off the ice and is an avid reader of historical novels.

Red Kelly had 12½ outstanding seasons in the NHL with Detroit behind him when he came to Toronto in a trade for Marc Reaume; Feb.4 1960. When he made his debut as a Leaf six days later against Canadiens, he received one of the greatest ovations ever accorded a Toronto player, as he stepped to the ice for the first time.

Kelly turned pro on defense with Detroit in the fall of 1947. He has been on the NHL first All Star Team six times, twice on the second team. He won the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy three times and in 1953-54 became the first winner of the James Norris Memorial Trophy, for the league's best defenseman.

When Red attended St. Mikes he was following in the footsteps of his father, Pete Kelly, and his uncle Leo, who is now a priest. His dad was a rugged hockeyist who gained fame in the Simcoe area, sustained a fractured back, but returned to play until he reached his 40's.

On July 4, after a five year courtship, Kelly wed U.S. skating star, Andra McLaughlin, in Detroits St. Brigid Roman Catholic Church.

Frank Mahovlich has been a controversial star ever since he first stepped on to the ice in a Maple Leaf uniform. In his first year, 1957-58, he won the rookie award, the Calder Memorial Trophy, a narrow victory over Chicago's Bobby Hull. Mahovlich has the natural ability that goes with being a great player and when he is going his best, Leafs are very difficult to beat. He doesn't always display this greatness, but hockey men believe he will develop into an acknowledged superstar.

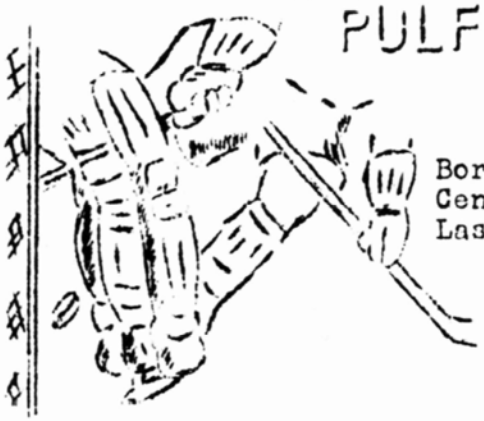
BOB PULFORD



Born - Newton Robinson Ont., March 31, 1936
Last amateur club: Toronto Marlboros (Jrs.)

One of the most successful moves Punch Imlach has made as coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs was to convert Bob Pulford from left wing to centre. Since then he steadily has developed into one of the league's first-line stars, a rugged, driving player of great skill and endurance. He checks hard, has a good shot, and in addition to his regular line duties is extraordinarily effective as a penalty-killer. Last year he scored six goals when his own team was short-handed, one less than the NHL record held by Jerry Toppazzini of Boston.

Pulford turned pro with Toronto in the autumn of 1956, never has been in the minors, and is considered untouchable in trades. He was on two Toronto Marlboros teams that won the Canadian junior hockey championship and the Memorial Cup.

Bob, unmarried, works summers toward a Bachelor of Arts degree. His usual summer classes at McMaster University in Hamilton were passed up this year for a three-months trip to Europe.

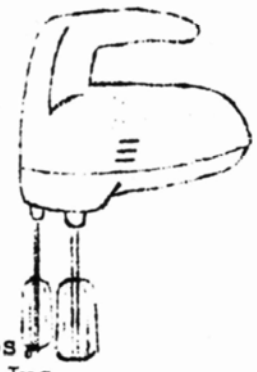
BERT OLMSTEAD



Born - Sceptre, Sask. Sept. 4, 1926
Last Amateur Club - Moose Jaw Canucks Jrs.

Bert Olmstead is one of hockey's most dedicated performers, playing with a diligence and drive not frequently seen. He came to the Maple Leafs in the fall of 1958 by way of the draft from Montreal Canadiens. Presumably nearing the end of a brilliant career, due primarily to a series of knee injuries, he became part of the backbone of the Toronto team.

An alumni of the Moose Jaw Canucks, Bert turned pro in 1946-47 with Chicago's Kansas City affiliate in the USHL. Later, he went to Chicago and Milwaukee, before being dealt to Detroit in 1950-51. A few days later the Wings sent him to Canadiens for Leo Gravelle. Olmstead was on four Stanley Cup winning teams in Montreal, one second All-Star team, and holds the NHL record for the most assists in one season, 56, in 1955-56. He is married to the former Nora Mossart and they have two children, Dennis, 6, and Bonnie, 4.

In the off season Bert returns to the town of Sceptre, population about 350, near North Battleford. He operates a 640 acre wheat farm on the outskirts of town. When it comes to recreation, Bert's a top notch trapshooter and an accomplished curler.

LARRY REGAN

Born - North Bay Ont., Aug. 9, 1930
Last amateur club: Shawinigan Falls/

Larry Regan was an elderly rookie of 26 when he broke in to the National Hockey League in 1956 -- and the man who drafted him into a Boston uniform was Punch Imlach, who then was directing farm operations for the Boston club.

When Regan was placed on waivers by Boston half through the 1958-59 season, Imlach's Leafs were in last place. Imlach drafted Regan to Toronto, and the hard-skating and stick-handling wizardry of the Ottawa Irishman immediately was popular sith Toronto fans. It also was a definite factor in giving Leafs some of the spirit they needed for that long haul into the Stanley Cup finals that year.

Regans career has been marred by injuries. In addition to a broken wrist two seasons ago, last season a broken nose and a twisted back caused him to miss 23 games. He was born in North Bay, grew up in Ottawa, and married Margaret Armstrong there in 1952. His hobby is a collection of popular records and in the off season he sells cottages for Haliburton Developments. Owns one of them himself.

ALLAN STANLEY

Born- Timmins Ontario, March 1, 1926
Last amateur club: Boston Olympics.(Seniors)

Stanley -- called "Sam" in the dressing rooms around the league -- became Leafs property in October, 1958, in a deal that sent Jim Morrison to Boston. Leafs needed a steadying influence on defence, where they'd been unsteady (and finished last) the previous year. Stanley had been considered through as an NHL player, by some people. He fooled them. Last year his 10 goals and 23 assists were his best scoring record ever in the NHL, and his defensive work was outstanding. He was a natural choice for the All Star Team.

Stanley has been playing hockey for a living since he was in his teens. He spent two years in the Canadian Navy before turning pro with Providence, played with Rangers, Chicago and Boston before joining Leafs.

In 1958 he married the former Barbara Bowie. His family is well known in the north and Stanley may return to politics or the mining business when he decides to call quits to his long, fine hockey career.

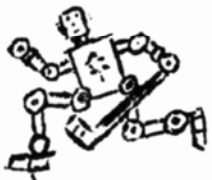
JOHNNY WILSON



Born - Kincardine Ont., June 14, 1929
Last amateur club: Windsor Spitfired (Jrs)

Johnny Wilson came to the Maple Leafs in the summer of 1959 in exchange for Barry Cullen. He began the 1959-60 season in high gear, but his scoring tapered off when his ice time was cut. However, he bagged 15 goals and 16 assists, which made his total three points higher than in the previous season when he was with Detroit.

A real workman who skates miles and digs in the corners, Wilson teamed up with Garry Edmundson and Gerry James towards the end of the past campaign to form a colorful line called "The Rocks" "The Crunch Line", and (by the opposition) less complimentary names.

Wilson has been on three Stanley Cup teams and, while he has never won one of the National Hockey League's individual awards his name will be in the record books a long time as hockey's "Iron Man". Beginning the 1960-61 season, Wilson has played an impressive 580 consecutive scheduled games.

He is married to the former Patricia Donald.

When players and coaches of other NHL teams are talking about natural ability and real professional know-how, Ron Stewart's name comes up often. Very few players in the league can match his speed, but his effortless skating style is deceptive. He has a hard shot, makes moves naturally that get him into shooting position often, and in addition to playing right wing on a regular shift, is sent out with Bob Pulford when there is a particularly difficult job of penalty-killing to be done. Capable of handling almost any position he even starred as a defenseman during the 1957-58 campaign.

While a member of the Barrie Flyers, Ron met Barbara Christie of Barrie. They were married in 1952 and have three sons, Jeff, Terry and Robin. Stewart makes his home in Barrie where he works as a salesman for a brewery.
